A LEGENDE

Les Barmes, les Balmes, les Tannes and les Tines, all these names are used in the Alps to name caverns, caves and chasms.

They were often narratives of many fantastic tales and had a reputation for being the den of elves and fairies.

In the village of « Sainte Foy » in Haute Tarentaise, there is a vertical gap said bottomless, commonly called « La Bourma de lé Feyes », which means the Fairies Cave in patois.

In Val d'Isère, It's both a mountain and since winter 2003 a hotel that shares this name...
